More than a decade ago, Perrigo, a global over-the-counter consumer goods and pharmaceutical company, was seeking a partner to perform preventive and corrective maintenance at their Allegan facilities. A rock solid relationship was formed and presently Windemuller works with Perrigo on a daily basis to provide ongoing electrical, automation and communications maintenance services.

What keeps an international manufacturer like Perrigo coming back year after year?

- Cost savings versus full-time staff
- Comprehensive services, resulting in reduced rates
- The expertise of all Windemuller employees at their disposal – including electrical, automation, communications, and outdoor utilities
- Access to Windemuller tooling and equipment, versus having to purchase it themselves
