

The world of video surveillance has undergone drastic changes and continues to evolve. With increasing availability of high-speed internet, combined with new and affordable IP camera options, this advancement in technology has created new possibilities that 10 years ago we didn't consider a reality.

Today, it is possible to access multiple camera views from your home or business with the latest software on your computer desktop, tablet or mobile device. IP Video Surveillance Systems are taking remote management to new heights and the change is increasing the effectiveness of nearly every system in which it is being used.

At Windemuller, we provide security system design services, installation, end user training and 24 hour support. Our engineers and technicians are manufacturer certified and we have chosen only the reliable systems and manufacturers to partner with. Windemuller supports network software systems from Salient Systems, Milestone XProtect and Exacq Vision Video Security, and is a Panasonic IPro and Axis Communications Security Camera certified installation and service contractor.

All Video Security Systems can integrate with our Building Access Control Systems for a complete security solution.
